The University Mace

Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the flame of knowledge, the University Mace has the University Seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth, held together by a gold band, which symbolizes their unity.

The Head of the Mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the hub in which the Seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the University life.

The Mace is borne by the Faculty Co-Chairperson of the University Assembly.

Academic Costume and Regalia

Academic regalia represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy and academics retained the traditional regalia and then only reserving it for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retains some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor's and master's gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and the sleeves are adorned by three velvet stripes, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional head gear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the discipline or level of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music, etc.).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, almost three dozen universities in this country and many others in Europe have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the colorful robes represented at this commencement are ones from Boston College, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Princeton, Rutgers, Tufts and Yale universities, and Universities of California, Kansas and Rhode Island.

This program is for ceremonial purposes only. The official list of graduates is maintained by the University Registrar.

Honorary Degree Recipients

FLORENCE LUSCOMB, Doctor of Laws

The life of Florence Luscomb is an inspiration to all who hope to see realized in America the values of social justice, democracy and peace. A life-long resident of Massachusetts, she was, in 1912, one of the first women graduates of M.I.T. She practised architecture until World War I, at which time she turned her energy and idealism toward constructing a sound dwelling place for all Americans. An activist in the Campaign for Women's Suffrage over seventy years ago, she is today strongly identified with, and considered a link between, the nineteenth-century Women's Rights Movement and the Women's Liberation Movement of the last decade. Her crusades for social equality, however, were not for women only, but for all Americans. Acutely aware of the social impact of racial prejudice, she was an activist and officer in the first Boston Chapter of the NAACP. Believing that the struggles for social and economic justice were inseparable, she organized office workers' unions, and ran as a Progressive Party candidate for Governor in 1952. An outspoken opponent of militarism and war, she worked in the International League for Peace and Freedom for nearly sixty years. She has told her biographers that she considers it a great tragedy that most of us travel down a high-walled lane with people of our own kind while beyond the walls lie all humanity, "unknown, unseen, and untouched by our restricted and impoverished lives." On her journey to create a just and peaceful world, Florence Luscomb, unlike most of us, walked beyond the walls and profoundly touched humanity.

PHILIP J. MCNIFF, Doctor of Humane Letters

An alumnus of Boston College, Philip J. McNiff held major positions in the Harvard Library before becoming Director of the Boston Public Library in 1965. To these great research institutions he has given and is giving wise and dedicated leadership. At Harvard he helped to develop the concept of the undergraduate library, and the Lamont Library, the first of its kind, became a model for the whole country. At the Boston Public Library he has developed programs for the old and young, opening for them exciting new worlds to be explored through books. To "Phil" McNiff, librarianship means serving the entire constituency of the library. He has always put the needs of users first, and has instilled this principle in all who have had the privilege of working with him. His vision has not been local; his friends include librarians around the world with whom he has worked on library problems that call for national and international cooperation. This honorary degree expresses the gratitude and appreciation of this academic community which benefits greatly from the Boston Public Library under the directorship of Phil McNiff—doyen of Boston's librarians.

I.M. PEI, Doctor of Fine Arts

I.M. Pei has brought elegance and vitality to our lives and our cities. Born in China, he has become the architect most identified internationally with contemporary American architecture. His many noted buildings, which include the John F. Kennedy Memorial Library here on Columbia Point, and the East Wing of the National Gallery of Art in Washington, are works of art in themselves and pristine symbols for our nation. I.M. Pei not only shapes our environment but creates the best in architecture: dramatic, symbolic and functional design allied to perfectly crafted materials. We are grateful to have him and his architecture in our presence.

ANDREW YOUNG, Doctor of Laws

Andrew Young has lived in three different but overlapping worlds. As an ordained minister, he served in a number of Southern parishes and on the National Council of Churches. In 1961 he was appointed by Martin Luther King, Jr. as Executive Director of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. He represented Atlanta in the Congress for two terms, before being appointed United States Ambassador to the United Nations by President Carter. Now, as founder and dollar-a-year employee of a non-profit corporation called Young Ideas, he is working to increase American trade with developing nations. In addressing a conference of black mayors while he was in Congress, he said, "We can't help but be people who believe in doing the impossible, because we've already done so much of it." In each of his roles—spiritual, political and, now, commercial—Andrew Young has been succeeding with the impossible.
