Commencement
1982
University of Massachusetts
at Boston

Harbor Campus

The University Mace

Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the emblem of knowledge, the University Mace has the University Seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth, held together by a gold band, which symbolizes their unity.

The Head of the Mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the bulb in which the Seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the University Life.

The Mace is borne by the Faculty Co-Chairperson of the University Assembly.

Academic Costume and Regalia

Academic regalia represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy and academics retained the traditional regalia and then only reserving it for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retains some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor’s and master’s gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and the sleeves are adorned by three velvet stripes, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional headgear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the discipline or level of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music, etc.).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, almost three dozen universities in this country and many others in Europe have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the schools represented by colorful robes at commencement ceremonies are Boston College, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford, Tufts and Yale universities, and the Universities of California, Kansas and Rhode Island.

This program is for ceremonial purposes only. The official list of graduates is maintained by the University Registrar.

Arnold "Red" Auerbach
Doctor of Humane Letters

The accomplishments of Arnold "Red" Auerbach are an expression of the values of urban service to which the University is committed. His achievements as coach and general manager of the Boston Celtics are impressive by themselves; during his 31 year association with the team he has directed it to 14 world championships — 11 in 13 seasons, a record unmatched by any team in sports. But the brilliance of these accomplishments may obscure an even more important element of Red Auerbach's service to the city: without self-serving fanfare, he broke down the invisible barriers which had stood in the way of fully equal participation in professional basketball for minority players. This is his greatest triumph, for it gives to his championships not only the luster of victory, but also the glory of quiet humanity. It has been said often that basketball is the city game, one in which urban people particularly excel. Today, the public urban university of the Commonwealth honors a man who has made a lifetime of association with the city game into a lasting tribute to those principles of excellence and equality to which the University has dedicated itself.

Marian Wright Edelman
Doctor of Humane Letters

Marian Wright Edelman has devoted her life to issues in civil rights and in public interest affairs which concern and affect us all. Shortly after graduating from Yale Law School in 1963, Ms. Edelman established and directed the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund Office in Jackson, Mississippi. She subsequently served as Director of the Center for Law and Education at Harvard University, and was a member of the President's Commission on MIA's which visited Hanoi. Ms. Edelman's principal contributions, however, have been made in her work on behalf of children. Since 1973, she has been President of the Children's Defense Fund in Washington, D.C., which has been a major force in a wide range of children's and family issues. The activities of this agency range from the publication of research to active legal intervention, and include systematic representation of the interests of children and families before federal administrative agencies. Ms. Edelman is the author of many influential articles and books, and her work has been recognized by numerous distinguished awards. In honoring Ms. Edelman for her work with children and families, we honor an individual whose commitment mirrors that of the University, for her contributions foster both personal strength in the present and through that strength the achievement of broader social good in the future.
Oscar Handlin
Doctor of Humane Letters

Oscar Handlin's unchallenged eminence as a student of the social history of the United States rests both in the range of his many publications and in the depth of perception evident in each of them. He is particularly expert in the history of our own city and state, as such books as Boston's Immigrants and Commonwealth will attest, but he has explored all aspects and periods of the American past, in works both closely researched and broadly speculative. He is a master of genres — biography, the essay, the textbook, the review, the extended historical study; and a master of style — a style fully equal to the complexity and poignancy of his vision. His grasp of theory and methodology is firm, but his mind seems always to turn away from the abstract toward the personal and particular: social history, for him, must end in an understanding of the experiences of ordinary people. He is legendary among his generations of students not only for the comprehensive brilliance of his teaching but also for countless acts of individual concern. Throughout his career he has demonstrated his commitment to the highest standards, academic and human — or rather, to one high standard, both academic and human. Again and again, Oscar Handlin has asked himself, his readers, and his students what it was like to be alive in the past and, no less persistently, what it means to be alive today. The University honors him now for asking and answering these questions so wisely and well.

Louise Hussey
Doctor of Humane Letters

A resident of Nantucket for over fifty years, Louise Hussey has served for many of them as librarian of the Whaling Museum and of the Peter Foulger Museum. She has aided scholars from all over the world in their researches on maritime history and scores of more casual visitors to the island every year. She has impressed all with the extent of her knowledge and with her professional command of research methods. Her connection with the Nantucket Program of the University of Massachusetts at Boston has extended her constituency, as she has inspired deep respect and loyalty in both the faculty and students of the University with whom she has come in contact. The enthusiasm and affection with which she greets new students, nurtures them during their stay, and maintains contact with them after they leave have made her an important and integral part of the University community. We are pleased and proud to honor Louise Hussey today, both for her many services to the University and to the citizens of the Commonwealth, and for her contributions to the scholarly life of the world.
