The University Mace
Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the flame of knowledge, the University Mace has the University Seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth, held together by a gold band, which symbolizes their unity.

The Head of the Mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the hub in which the Seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the University life.

The Mace is borne by the chairperson of the Faculty Council.

Academic Costume and Regalia
Academic regalia represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy and academics retained the traditional regalia and then only reserving it for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retain some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor's and master's gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and the sleeves are adorned by three velvet stripes, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional headgear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the discipline or level of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music, etc.).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, almost three dozen universities in this country and many others in Europe have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the schools represented by colorful robes at commencement ceremonies are Boston College, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford, Tufts and Yale Universities, and the Universities of California, Kansas and Rhode Island.

This program is for ceremonial purposes. The official list of graduates is maintained by the University Registrar.

In the maelstrom of political and social forces in Northern Ireland, John Hume has held steadfastly to the conviction that violence will not solve that country's problems.

John Hume became involved in politics in 1967, first as a leader of the Civil Rights Movement and later, in 1970, as a co-founder of the Social Democratic and Labour Party [SDLP]. Since that time, he has held numerous elected offices. In 1983, he was the moving force behind the establishment of the New Ireland Forum, which has received widespread international acclaim and holds forth genuine promise of eventual rapprochement. In June of 1984, he was overwhelmingly re-elected to the European Parliament.

His political philosophy is simple—that the conflicts in Northern Ireland can be solved only through peaceful means. He has hewed to this line despite the activities of men of violence and at great physical risk to himself. Nonetheless, he has refused to accept armed protection, his concern for the lives of the policemen who would guard him overrides his care for his own personal safety.

In honoring John Hume, we honor one who exemplifies the commitment to moderation, reason and humane values which lies at the heart of the liberal education the University strives to impart.

Natalie Jacobson, co-anchor and news reporter for WCVB-TV, began her broadcasting career in 1969 in Boston. Formerly the Director of Public Affairs for WBZ-TV, where she produced the programs "For Kids Only," "Que Pasa!," and "First Person," she went on to become the first woman to anchor a major Boston news program.

She has won two regional Emmy awards for her live coverage of the 1984 Boston Marathon and for her narration of "The Spirit and the Flame," a tribute to Special Olympians. Her coverage of numerous election nights and special events of the magnitude of the parade of Tall Ships in Boston Harbor, her hosting of major telethons for charitable causes, and her narration of public affairs documentaries have made her the best known broadcast journalist in New England.

Today, the University of Massachusetts at Boston honors Natalie Jacobson for her many public service contributions to the city and the Commonwealth, for her distinguished reporting of the events that shape our world, and for her pioneering personal achievements in the field of communications media.
The Reverend Monsignor Eugene P. McNamara
Doctor of Humane Letters

As a youth in Waltham, Eugene P. McNamara learned early of the joys of family and community living as one of the twelve children of James and Mary McNamara. The lessons were well learned. For the past twenty years, the world of human service in Boston and throughout the Commonwealth has known the Reverend Monsignor Eugene McNamara as a tireless servant and courageous leader.

Ordained a priest in 1953, Monsignor McNamara was appointed chief executive of the Catholic Charitable Bureau of Boston in 1966 and today is its longest-serving director. He was graduated from the Boston College School of Social Work in 1965 and licensed as an Independent Social Worker in 1981.

Public appreciation for his dedicated service has been readily given, including, notably, an appointment as Honorary Prelate to Pope Paul VI in 1969. Yet no commendation has been more genuinely expressed than that of the colleagues and clients who daily share in his support of the needy among us. On corporate board, on State Commission, in legislative hearing, in neighborhood planning group and in personal conference, his credo begins with uncompromising respect for human dignity.

In honoring Monsignor Eugene McNamara, the University of Massachusetts at Boston acknowledges an exemplary citizen of the Commonwealth for his ceaseless commitment to quality of life for all.

Alvan S. Ryan
Doctor of Humane Letters

The University is proud to honor one of its own in recognizing the distinction of Alvan S. Ryan, Professor Emeritus.

A graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst in 1934, Professor Ryan completed graduate degrees at Harvard University and at the State University of Iowa. He has published widely on many subjects, including Cardinal Newman and the works of Carlyle, Eliot and Frost, and he has written frequently on the meaning and significance of liberal education. Putting theory to practice, Professor Ryan has made a particular contribution to higher education in academic administrative positions. Among numerous other positions, he served as Professor and Head of the Department of English at Notre Dame University, a position he left to become a founding faculty member and first Chairman of the Humanities Division at the University of Massachusetts at Boston.

Most notable, however, is the love of learning that Professor Ryan both exemplified and inspired. He brought to the University a gentle but vigorous enthusiasm for the literature he taught, and he communicated to generations of students that commitment to humane values which is fundamental to the study of literature.

Upon his retirement in 1978, Professor Ryan was named the first Professor Emeritus in the history of the University of Massachusetts at Boston, and he has remained an active teacher and scholar since that time. We take special pleasure in presenting the degree of Doctor of Humane letters, honoris causa, to a friend and respected colleague, in recognition of his lifelong service to education.
The career of Stephen J. Sweeney may be taken as a paradigm for success won through hard work, self-discipline and dedication to strong personal ideals.

He grew up and attended public schools in Revere, Massachusetts. After graduation from Mount St. Mary's College, he spent three years in the U.S. Army Signal Corps; he was awarded a Bronze Star during the Korean Conflict. His first job when he left the army in 1953 was as a laboratory equipment tester at the Boston Edison Company. While he worked a full-time day, he took courses at night at Northeastern University toward the associate's degree in electrical engineering, which he completed in 1957. Since that time he has risen through more than thirty years of company service, in positions of progressively greater challenge and responsibility, to the post of President and Chief Executive Officer of Boston Edison.

His outstanding achievements within the business world have inspired in him a commitment to giving generously of himself, in return, to his society. His involvement in civic and charitable causes has been major and varied.

It is with the utmost respect for the values his accomplishments embody that the University of Massachusetts at Boston today honors Stephen J. Sweeney.

Soldier, lawyer and teacher of the law, United States Attorney, Chief Legal Counsel to the Governor of the Commonwealth, Federal Judge in the United States District Court of Massachusetts, Joseph L. Tauro has rendered thirty distinguished years of public service to the United States and the citizens of the Commonwealth.

In hundreds of federal court decisions, he has established a reputation as a model jurist: intelligent, impartial, hardworking, and independent. He has been cited as the best justice in the First Circuit.

His landmark decisions relating to mental illness and mental retardation are notable examples of his staunch concern for every citizen's right to equal justice under the law. The nature of our society's thinking about the mentally handicapped and the services which we provide them have changed radically as a result of his judicial intervention.

It is in recognition and admiration of his manifold contributions to the causes of equity and humanity that the University of Massachusetts at Boston today presents Joseph Tauro with the degree of Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.
A Brookline native who attended Girls Latin School, Boston University and the Columbia School of Journalism, Dorothy West became, while still in her teens, a member of the famed Harlem Renaissance coterie, publishing her short stories widely. During the Depression she founded and edited Challenge and New Challenge, black quarterlies designed to keep alive the earlier decade’s spirit of intellectual and creative ferment and to fulfill its promise.

Her major novel, The Living Is Easy, documents the life of the black middle class in Boston, casts a satirical eye at social pretensions and hypocrisy, and brings to vivid life a striking and important female protagonist, Cleo. As a year-round resident of Martha's Vineyard since World War II, Dorothy West has continued to publish stories and essays and since 1973 has contributed a highly acclaimed weekly column to the Vineyard Gazette.

The University is proud to cite Dorothy West for her literary sensibility and storyteller’s craft, for her memorialization of the social modes and mores of black Boston, and for her numerous personal and professional achievements throughout a long and productive career.

As Chancellor of the State University of New York system, Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., shares with the University of Massachusetts at Boston a common commitment to public higher education. As one born and schooled in the city of Boston, he shares with us both common roots and ties of experience.

Following his graduation from the Boston Latin School and later from Harvard, Clifton Wharton went on to gain an M.A. in International Affairs from the Johns Hopkins University, where he was the first black to be admitted to the School of Advanced International Studies, and an M.A. and a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Chicago. A leading specialist in economic development and U.S. foreign policy, he has studied world hunger in Asia and in Latin America and has advocated for the developing world as a foundation official and as a member of several presidential and United Nations panels. After almost a decade of service as President of Michigan State University, where he was known for providing stable leadership during a time of transition in higher education, and for his close contact with students on a campus of 40,000, he came to his current role as SUNY Chancellor and Chairman of the Board of the Rockefeller Foundation.

In awarding Clifton R. Wharton, Jr., the University’s highest honor, we applaud his impressive academic and professional achievements and hold them up to our students and to all the young people of our city as an image of their limitless potential for success.
