University of Massachusetts at Boston
Commencement, 1991

Saturday, June 1
at 11:00 am
The University Mace
Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the flame of knowledge, the University Mace has the University Seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth.

The head of the mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the hub in which the seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the university life.

Academic Costume and Regalia
Academic regalia represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy, judges, and academics retained the traditional regalia, reserving it only for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retain some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor’s and master’s gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and its sleeves are adorned by three velvet strips, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional headgear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the level or discipline of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, almost three dozen universities in this country and many others throughout the world have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the schools represented by colorful robes at commencement ceremonies are Boston College, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Oxford, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford, Tufts, and Yale Universities, and the Universities of California, Kansas, and Rhode Island.

Please note:
The audience is asked to remain seated throughout this ceremony. At the end of the ceremony, those attending the diploma-presentation ceremony for College of Arts and Sciences graduates should continue to remain seated. Those attending individual college ceremonies at other locations will be invited to rise and leave college by college. The locations for these ceremonies are: Undergraduate Education and Physical Education Programs, McCormack Hall Gymnasium; College of Management, Clark Center Gymnasium (rain location: Clark Center Rink); College of Nursing, Ryan Lounge, McCormack Hall; College of Public and Community Service, Lipke Auditorium, Science Center; Graduate College of Education, Snowden Auditorium, Wheatley Hall; McCormack Institute, University Club, Healey Library.

Music at this ceremony is provided by The Quintessential Brass. The flags of various nations displayed along the campus entrance road are a gift of the class of 1987.

This program is for ceremonial purposes. The official list of graduates is maintained by the university registrar.

Recessional
Sissela Bok
Doctor of Humane Letters

Sissela Bok, a philosopher and teacher of philosophy, is a native of Stockholm, Sweden. She began her post-secondary education in Paris at the Sorbonne, and continued it at George Washington University (BA, MA), and Harvard University (PhD).

She is the author of four books—Lying: Moral Choice in Public and Private Life; Secrets: On the Ethics of Concealment and Revelation; A Strategy for Peace: Human Values and the Threat of War; and Alva Myrdal: A Daughter’s Memoir—and the co-editor of The Dilemmas of Euthanasia and Ethics Teaching in Higher Education. Among her recent articles are “On Opening Human Experimentation to Moral Debate,” “Early Advocates of Lasting World Peace: Utopians or Realists,” “Can Lawyers be Trusted,” and “Conveying and Creating Life.”

She has held teaching positions at Simmons College, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Harvard University, and (since 1985) Brandeis University, where she is a professor of philosophy. Her professional activity extends well beyond writing and teaching: she is currently a member of the International Commission on Peace and Food, the American Philosophical Association and Soviet Academy of Sciences exchange program on nuclear weapons policy, the Pulitzer Prize Board, the advisory board of Cultural Survival, and the board of consulting editors of The Encyclopedia of Ethics. Her professional honors include the Melcher Book Award and the George Orwell Award of the National Council of Teachers of English.

We honor Sissela Bok both for a body of work that illuminates, with extraordinary skill, ethical issues of profound importance, and for a life that sets a splendid example of intellectual responsibility.

Wayne A. Budd
Doctor of Laws

Wayne A. Budd was born in Springfield, Massachusetts, and educated at Cathedral High School in Springfield, at Boston College, and at the Wayne State University School of Law in Detroit, from which he graduated in 1967. Returning to Massachusetts, he served as Boston’s assistant corporation counsel and as assistant attorney general and chief of the Civil Rights and Liberties Division for the Massachusetts Attorney General’s Office.

After entering private practice in 1971, he established and became senior partner in the Boston firm of Budd, Wiley, and Richlin, the largest minority law firm in New England. In 1989 President Bush appointed him United States attorney for the Massachusetts District.

Throughout his career, Mr. Budd has been involved in a wide range of public service activities. In 1979 he was elected president of the Massachusetts Bar Association, the youngest person and the first black to occupy the presidency of any state bar association. He has served as president of the Massachusetts Black Lawyers Association and the Commonwealth’s Commission on Judicial Conduct. Appointed to the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission in 1972, he was its chair from 1983 to 1989. He is currently a trustee of Boston College, where he also served for a number of years as a lecturer in law.

His accomplishments in Boston are reflected by some of the awards he has received, which include the NAACP Distinguished Service Award, and the Salzmanson Human Relations Award from the Anti-Defamation League of the B’nai B’rith.

In honoring Wayne A. Budd, we recognize the achievements of a man who has combined public service and professional accomplishment at the highest level, in ways that have been of great importance to his community.
Abba Eban
Doctor of Laws

Abba Eban is a native of Capetown, South Africa. Educated at Cambridge University's Queens College, he became a research fellow and tutor in oriental languages at the university’s Pembroke College. During the Second World War, he served the Allies in a number of posts in the Middle East.

One of the most important diplomats of the new state of Israel, he was its first United Nations representative, beginning in 1948. From 1950 to 1959 he served as both UN representative and Israeli ambassador to the United States, and in 1953 he was vice-president of the UN’s General Assembly.

Mr. Eban was elected to Israel’s Parliament, the Knesset, in 1959. Over the next 15 years, he served his country as minister without portfolio, minister of education and culture, deputy prime minister, and, from 1966 to 1974, minister of foreign affairs. From 1958 to 1966 he was president of the Weizmann Institute of Science.

Author as well as statesman, Abba Eban has written a number of books, including The Modern Literary Movement in Egypt, Reality and Vision in the Middle East, My People, My Country, An Autobiography, and The New Diplomacy. In 1984, his series called Heritage: Civilization and the Jews was seen by millions of viewers on PBS.

Mr. Eban has received wide recognition in this country. He has been a visiting professor at Columbia University, and a member of Princeton’s Institute for Advanced Study. He is a fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and the World Academy of Arts and Sciences.

We honor Abba Eban for his literary and diplomatic achievements, and for his integration of intellectual and political pursuits into a life of public service.

Jaime Escalante
Doctor of Science

Jaime Escalante was born in La Paz, Bolivia. He was educated at the San Calixto Jesuit high school there, and at the government’s Normal Superior College for the preparation of teachers. He taught physics and mathematics at a number of Bolivian schools, and he was one of a group of Latin American teachers chosen through an Alliance for Progress program to spend a year in Puerto Rico.

Mr. Escalante emigrated to the United States in 1963. He worked at a Los Angeles restaurant, and then in the electronics industry while enrolled in night classes at Pasadena City College and California State University. In 1973 he won a National Science Foundation Fellowship enabling him to attend school full-time. A year later, now eligible for California teacher certification, he returned to his profession.

Mr. Escalante teaches today at the school where he began work as a mathematics teacher in the fall of 1974, Garfield High School in East Los Angeles. The achievements of his students in this primarily Latino inner city high school have made him well-known. He helped pioneer the development of advanced placement programs at Garfield, particularly in calculus. His students in calculus have done remarkably well compared with any high school students, public or private, in the country. In 1988 Stand and Deliver, one of the few mass-market films to celebrate teaching as an important part of our culture, called attention to Mr. Escalante’s work at Garfield High School.

In honoring Jaime Escalante, we recognize the accomplishments and lifelong dedication to teaching of a man whose intelligence, energy, and determination remain an example to generations of students, and to his colleagues in education.
Arthur S. Flemming was a native of Kingston, New York, studied as an undergraduate at Ohio Wesleyan University, and earned an MA from American University and a JD from the George Washington University. He has had a distinguished career as public servant, educator, civil rights advocate, and advocate for the elderly. After teaching at American University (1927-30) and directing its School of Public Affairs (1934-39), he served on the U.S. Civil Service Commission (1939-48) and the War Manpower Commission (1942-45). He was a member of President Eisenhower's National Security Council and directed the Office of Defense Mobilization (1953-57), and then served in the Eisenhower cabinet as secretary of health, education, and welfare (1958-61). He has also served as president of Ohio Wesleyan University (1948-53 and 1957-58), the University of Oregon, and Macalester College (1968-71). His many and varied activities also include service as president of the National Council of Churches of Christ in America (1966-69) and the National Council on Social Welfare (1968-69), and as chair of the Citizens Commission on Civil Rights (1974-82).

As an advocate for older citizens he has, among many other activities, chaired the White House Conference on Aging (1971), served as commissioner on aging for the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare (1973-78), and served as president of the National Council on Aging (1982-84). He is currently co-chair of a national Social Security advocacy group, Save Our Security.

In honoring Arthur Flemming, we pay tribute to a man whose record of service in the public and private sectors has spanned more than sixty years of our history; this country continues to benefit from his experience and his wisdom.

Mr. Flemming's degree will be conferred at Gerontology Center graduation ceremonies on June 5th at the John F. Kennedy Library.

Maxine Hong Kingston was born in Stockton, California. Educated at the University of California at Berkeley, she taught high school and college English in California and in Hawaii, before the 1976 publication of her book, The Woman Warrior: Memoirs of a Girlhood Among Ghosts, based on her own experience growing up as a Chinese-American woman, which was honored with a National Book Critics Circle Award. Since its appearance, The Woman Warrior has become one of the novels by contemporary American authors most frequently taught in college English classes.

Over the last fifteen years Ms. Kingston has been active in both writing and teaching. She was a visiting writer at the University of Hawaii in 1977, and at Eastern Michigan University in 1986, and is now on the faculty of the University of California at Berkeley.

Her other books include China Men (1980), which won a National Book Award, Hawaii One Summer (1987), and most recently Tripmaster Monkey: His Fake Book, which received the 1989 PEN fiction award. She is also the author of many short stories and articles, which have appeared in such publications as The New Yorker, American Heritage, and a number of other magazines and literary journals.

Ms. Kingston has received many awards for her writing, among them a Guggenheim Fellowship, a National Endowment for the Arts Fellowship, a Hawaii award for literature, the California Governor's Award in the arts for 1989, and the 1990 American Academy and Institute Award in Literature.

We honor Maxine Hong Kingston for the quality of her insight and the depth of her imagination, which have given us access to her own particular experiences and ideas in ways that make them meaningful to all of us.
Leon M. Lederman was born and grew up in New York City, where he attended public elementary and secondary schools and earned a BS from the City College of New York. After army service during World War II, he earned AM and PhD degrees in physics from Columbia University. He remained at Columbia as a researcher and faculty member until 1989, directing that university’s Nevis Laboratory (1962-1979) and also conducting research at several other laboratories, among them the Fermi National Accelerator Laboratory, which he served as director from 1979 to 1989. He is now professor of physics at the University of Chicago (whose faculty he joined in 1989), science advisor to the governor of Illinois, and president of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He has published numerous papers on diverse aspects of high energy particle physics, including the discoveries of: the long-lived neutral K-meson; two neutrinos; parity violation in ion and muon decay; high transverse momentum pions; and upsilon resonance and the B-quark. He is also extraordinarily active in efforts to increase support for basic scientific research at universities, and in efforts to strengthen science education at all levels through such projects as a free public boarding school for Illinois students gifted in science and math, a proposed “teaching academy” for Chicago public school math and science teachers, and his own university course on modern physics for non-science majors. His many honors include the Nobel Prize in Physics, the Wolf Prize in Physics, and the National Medal of Science.

In honoring Leon M. Lederman we salute a superb scientist and educator whose intense commitment to scientific inquiry is matched by a deep belief in the importance of informed citizenship.
