The University Mace
Symbols of authority and power, maces were originally hand weapons designed for use against armor. Topped by the flame of knowledge, the University mace has the University seal as a focal point and unifying element. Tassels of maroon and white hang from the shaft of fourteen rods of black walnut, symbolizing the fourteen counties of the Commonwealth. The head of the mace is gold plate over highly polished brass. Complex curves radiating from the hub in which the seal is centered reflect light in constantly changing patterns, symbolic of the many-faceted environment of the university life.

Academic Costume and Regalia
The academic regalia worn by faculty and students at this ceremony represent traditions which come down from the Middle Ages, when European universities were institutions of the church. At that time, robes were a common form of dress, particularly for officials of church and state. The cut of the robe, its adornment, and the colors used comprised a specialized heraldry that conveyed the rank and station of the wearer. At the universities, both faculty and students were considered to be part of the church hierarchy and were expected to wear the prescribed gowns. As society moved toward more modern forms of dress, only royalty, clergy, judges, and academics retained the traditional regalia, reserving it only for ceremonial use.

Modern academic regalia retain some of the symbols of the earlier forms of ceremonial dress. The gown tends to be fullest, longest, and heaviest for the doctoral degree. The sleeves for the bachelor's and master's gowns are typically open at the wrist. Cuffs are more common on the doctoral gown, and its sleeves are adorned by three velvet strips, symbolic of the degree. The mantle worn about the shoulders, called the hood, is the remnant of functional headgear worn for warmth in the unheated classrooms of medieval universities. Today its colors refer to the school that granted the degree and the level or discipline of the degree (e.g., navy blue for Ph.D., pink for music).

The usual color for academic gowns in the United States is black. However, many universities in this country and many others throughout the world have adopted more colorful robes. In general, this practice has been limited to schools more than one hundred years old. Among the schools represented by colorful robes at commencement ceremonies are Boston College, Boston University, Brown, Columbia, Cornell, Dartmouth, Duke, Harvard, New York, Oxford, Princeton, Rutgers, Stanford, Tufts, and Yale Universities, and the Universities of California, Kansas, and Rhode Island.

Receptions after the Ceremony
(Please Note!)
Receptions for individual UMass Boston colleges, as well as the McCormack Graduate School, will be held after the ceremony, at various locations on campus. For details, please see the separate page that was distributed with this program. We ask all guests to remain at their seats until the academic procession has left the Campus Center lawn.

Honoring Our Graduates
(Please Note!)
To permit both the graduates and their guests to enjoy today's celebration, we ask all members of the audience to remain seated during the ceremony, to turn off cell phones, and to avoid making any sounds that might make it difficult for others to hear.

This program is for ceremonial purposes. The official list of graduates is maintained by the university registrar.

Leonel Fernández has been elected constitutional president of the Dominican Republic in two different terms (1996-2000 and 2004-2008). He is the chair and president of the Dominican Liberation Party (PLD), and a member of various foreign councils and institutions, including Circulo de Montevideo; the Council of Freely Elected Government Heads of the Carter Center; Inter-American Dialogue; and the Club of Madrid. He presides over the US-Caribbean Executive Club and is the acting chair of the Dominican Republic United Nations Association.

A native of Santo Domingo, Fernández moved as a child with his family to New York City, where he spent his first school years and also attended high school. When he returned to the Dominican Republic, he enrolled at Universidad Autónoma de Santo (UASD), earning the degree of Juris Doctor with honors in 1978. As a professor at UASD and at Facultad Latinoamericana de Ciencias Sociales, he distinguished himself with his work in the fields of communication, sociology, rights of the press, and foreign relations. His books include Los Estados Unidos en el Caribe: De la Guerra Fría al Plan Reagan, and Raices de un Poder Uusrpado.

In 1994, Fernández was chosen by the PLD as a candidate for the country’s vice presidency and Juan Bosch’s running mate. In 1996 election, he was the party’s presidential candidate and won after a vibrant campaign, becoming the first PLD chief of state of the Dominican Republic and one of the youngest statesmen in Latin America. After leaving office in 2000, Fernández continued contributing to the development of the Dominican Republic and the Latin American region through a multidisciplinary think tank, the Fundación Global Democracia y Desarrollo. He was reelected to the presidency in 2004.

We honor Leonel Fernández for his enlightened and effective efforts to increase the well-being of his country’s citizens, and for his commitment to the principles and practice of global partnership.

Emily Rooney has been host and executive editor of Greater Boston, WGBH’s local issues and public affairs program, since its debut in January 1997. The series has been honored with numerous New England Emmys, Associated Press, and Edward R. Murrow Awards for public affairs programming and excellence in writing and commentary.

She came to WGBH from the Fox Network in New York, where she oversaw national political coverage, including the 1996 presidential campaign. When she joined Fox in 1994, she was senior producer of Fox news productions; prior to Fox, she was executive producer of ABC’s World News Tonight with Peter Jennings. At WCVB-TV in Boston from 1979 to 1993, she worked as news director and assistant news director before that. During her tenure, WCVB’s news department received such honors as two Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Awards, several George Foster Peabody Awards, and the Radio/Television News Directors Association (RTNDA) Edward R. Murrow Award for “Best News Operation in the Nation.” Under her direction, the station’s coverage of the 1988 presidential campaign was recognized as the “Best in the Country” by both the RTNDA and the National Headliner Awards.

Throughout her career, she has been sought after for her views on ethics and standards in broadcast journalism and advocacy of media accountability. Each Friday on Greater Boston, she leads the show’s “Beat the Press” edition, a discussion of what the media covered during the week, and why. “Beat the Press” received the prestigious National Press Club’s Arthur Rowse Award for Press Criticism in 2001 and 2004. A native of Connecticut, she is a graduate of American University in Washington, DC.

We honor Emily Rooney for a distinguished career in journalism, and particularly for advocating—and demonstrating—the importance of accountability and truthfulness in the influential medium she has represented so well.
John Ruffin has devoted his professional life to improving the health status of minority populations in the United States and to developing and supporting educational programs for minority researchers and health care practitioners. He is currently director of the National Center on Minority Health and Health Disparities (NCMHD), part of the National Institutes of Health.

At NCMHD he leads a national program of biomedical, behavioral, and social sciences research; research training; and dissemination of information designed to eliminate health disparities and health conditions that disproportionately affect racial and ethnic minorities and other medically-underserved populations. He manages the NCMHD's staff, a budget in excess of $185 million, research programs, and statutorily-mandated health disparities programs.

He is the former director of the NIH Office of Research on Minority Health, the predecessor to the NCMHD. Prior to joining the NIH he was dean of the College of Arts and Science at North Carolina Central University. A native of New Orleans, he studied at Dillard University and Atlanta University before earning a PhD at Kansas State University in systematic and developmental biology and then pursuing postdoctoral studies at Harvard University.

His achievements have earned such recognition as the Samuel L. Kountz Award for his contribution to the cause of increasing access and participation by minorities in organ and tissue transplantation; the NIH Director's Award; the National Hispanic Leadership Award; the National Medical Association Award of Appreciation; a Special Recognition Award from the Secretary of Health and Human Services; and, most recently, the Presidential Merit Award.

We honor John Ruffin for the vision he shares with the indispensable organization he heads: the vision of an America in which all populations will have an equal opportunity to live long, healthy and productive lives.

Gail Snowden is vice president for finance and operations of the Boston Foundation, one of the oldest and largest community foundations in the United States. In this position, she oversees the finances and administrative operations of the $650 million foundation, and is a key member of the senior management team.

She recently retired from banking after a 36-year career. Most recently, she was executive vice president for Bank of America, where she was responsible for strategy development and oversight of 60-plus strategic alliances and partnerships. Prior to that, she was president of FleetBoston Financial Foundation, and earlier she served as executive vice president and managing director of FleetBoston Financial's Community Investment Group. She joined Bank of Boston in 1968, serving in many capacities through the bank's numerous mergers. Under her leadership, innovative financial services were brought to those most in need, and nationally recognized community investment efforts were developed. Her contributions resulted in the awarding of "Outstanding" Community Reinvestment Act (CRA) ratings at the banks, and the White House Ron Brown Award for Advocating for the Needs of Minority and Low-Income Constituents.

Ms. Snowden is a member of the boards of Northeastern University, Simmons College, and Initiative for a Competitive Inner City. She is also emeritus chair of the board of directors of Freedom House, which her parents founded in 1949. She has received numerous awards, including the Rosoff Diversity Award, and has been named one of the nation's Top Business and Professional Women by Dollars and Sense magazine. She is a 1967 graduate of Harvard/Radcliffe College and earned an MBA from Simmons Graduate School of Management in 1978.

We honor Gail Snowden for a life's work in community development—for the skillful and faithful application of extraordinary business skills to problems and opportunities facing her fellow-citizens.
Steven Tyler is an icon in the entertainment world, having established himself as a rock legend, setting styles and defying trends. He is the lead singer for one of the most successful rock bands in history—Boston-based Aerosmith—and is establishing himself as a film presence after having already starred in an array of classic videos. With Aerosmith, he has helped change the face of the music world by generating 20-plus albums that have sold over 100 million copies. The band has reached the Billboard charts with 29 singles, won countless awards, served as pioneers in new media, and earned a diehard fan-base around the globe. Having recently wrapped up yet another world tour to support the group’s 25th release, Honkin’ on Bobo (which received a four-star review in Rolling Stone), Aerosmith remains the platinum standard for artistic and commercial success in the music business. The group was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 2001.

For years, Steven Tyler has also given himself to charitable efforts, from helping to feed homeless women to making wishes come true for children with severe illnesses. He has supported some of Greater Boston’s most significant non-profits, among them Victory Programs and the Middlesex Human Services Agency, which serve sufferers from alcoholism, substance abuse, and homelessness; and Cam Neely’s “Betting on a Cause and a Cure” fundraiser. He has also given time and talent to Mayor Menino’s ReadBoston literacy program and a “Talking Street” cell-phone city tour, and to such events as the “Celebrity Hat Trick” supporting the Boston and Worcester fire departments. Through the Intrepid Fallen Heroes Fund and the Fisher House Foundation, he aids the families of soldiers wounded or killed in Iraq and Afghanistan.

We honor Steven Tyler not only as a beloved entertainer of millions, but also as a generous and productive contributor to the well-being of others, particularly in his home city and region.

Honoring Our Graduates

Today all of us come together to celebrate the academic accomplishments of new alumni of UMass Boston. Today's pageantry acknowledges the efforts of each individual graduate, and each one of them will appreciate your help in making Commencement 2005 an enjoyable and memorable event. Please review this page to make yourself aware of important information you will need, and ways you can contribute to the success of the day. We thank you for your cooperation.

As the Graduates Enter and Leave...

Please remain at your seats and avoid blocking the aisles. The ceremony begins with an academic procession, signaled by a musical fanfare, and ends when graduates have marched out of the seating area on the Campus Center lawn. The three main aisles must remain free so that those in the procession can march in and out without delay.

Cell Phones and Other Intrusions

The graduates request your undivided attention during today's ceremonies. Please turn off any potentially noisy electronic devices, such as cell phones, pagers, radios, and electronic games, and keep conversation to a minimum while the ceremonies are in progress. This courtesy will allow everyone in attendance to hear today's speakers.

Photographs

Professionals will be photographing each student as degrees are presented. Your graduate will receive information by mail from the photographers about purchasing his or her photographs (no one will be obliged to do this). You are welcome to photograph diploma presentations from your seat, and you will also be able to take photographs after the ceremonies.

College Diploma Ceremonies

Receptions for individual UMass Boston colleges, as well as the McCormack Graduate School, will be held after the ceremony at various locations on campus. Please note that both graduate and undergraduate degree recipients, and their guests, are invited to attend the receptions for the colleges that house their academic programs. The locations of the receptions are given below and on the other side of this page. To reach your reception, please follow the signs marked with the name of your graduate's college. They are color-coded to match the color of your admission ticket.
